Merit Selection Panels

Merit selection panels can be formed during the process of selecting permanent school staff like a classroom teacher, principal or an executive position and the school's P&C Association is included in the DoE procedures as a key partner in the selection of new staff. When permission has been given for a merit selection process to be run, the schools P&C Association, if one exists, must be contacted in order to nominate a P&C representative for any merit selection panel.

The Department of Education must ensure that all panel members are trained in merit selection procedures by the time the panel begins. However, a P&C representative doesn't need to be trained prior to being nominated to be the P&C representative.

More information on merit selection can be found in P&C Federation's Merit Selection Guide, or in the Merit Selection Procedure for School Teachers.
